WHAT THIRD PARTIES ARE SAYING

MAY 11, 2022
 U.S. BARRON'S

...we believe an improving supply environment for next-gen consoles is setting an attractive backdrop in D1. Once market headwinds ease, H&M is well positioned to execute on the demand, given its robust inventory and supply chain management capabilities.

MAY 11, 2022
 COMENDEUS

We believe long-term market fundamentals and H&M's business strategy are well aligned to support reacceleration of sales and profit growth into 2023. The stock remains undervalued, in our view, and we reiterate Outperform.

MAY 11, 2022
 WEDBUSH

We are confident that the company can continue to grow its console headset revenue over the long term as new gamers gained during the pandemic enter the peripheral upgrade cycle over the next 1-3 years (assuming normalized console availability and video game reception) and as it adds substantial growth by expanding in other product categories and expanding internationally.

MAY 11, 2022
 U.S. BARRON'S

The company is doing a good job at mitigating the market pressures by diversifying its revenue mix (PC gaming), introducing new innovative products (see next one of those 48hr battery life headsets), and expanding internationally.

MAY 11, 2022
 CIBC FIRST

While facing a more challenging retail gaming environment, logistic issues, and inflationary component costs, Turtle Beach remains well-positioned with a dominant market share in its key console segments. As console supply returns to normal levels and freight costs come down, the stock is relatively inexpensive given the quality of its business and the potential for Turtle Beach to be a highly accretive acquisition target for a more significant US gaming hardware player.

MAY 11, 2022
 WEDBUSH

...we remain positive on Turtle Beach long-term. The company has repeatedly proved that it can maintain or build market share in various environments, while its nearest but rapidly expanding PC gaming headset and accessories segment is offsetting current declines in console peripherals up against difficult competitors. Additionally, Turtle Beach's available cash for R&D and new in-house product development provides it with plenty of runway for growth in the year's ahead.

 MAXIM

We believe management's data-driven approach to managing the business positions the company to take additional share of the growing $1.7B+ console headset market, successfully expand into the $3.8B+ PC headset and accessories market, and the $2.3B global microphone market, as well as the $1.8 aggregate third-party controller and fight simulator product markets.

MAY 11, 2022
 COMENDEUS

The company is well positioned, its balance sheet is clean and getting stronger. ROCCAT proved management's ability to enter and expand in unfamiliar categories (Gaming mice), the expert management to execute its growth plans as well as it did for its turnaround. Reiterate Outperform and raising PT to $43 from $37. We believe the company has never been this well positioned for growth, and management is committing more investments to capture the opportunities. H&M management showcased leadership execution in the past three years. The team successfully handled two rounds of sudden demand surges (2018 & 2020) and associated supply chain challenges, cleared its balance sheet, and expanded and grew in new markets (PC accessories).

MAY 11, 2022
 U.S. BARRON'S

Once again, in our view, management showed its ability to navigate multiple challenges, including chip shortages and logistics inflation to report better-than-expected top- and bottom-line results.
